

Our topics

DLR Projektträger is a leading German project management agency. We specialise in strategy consulting and the proficient management of programmes and projects. Our clients from ministries, governmental institutions, science, business and society have access to a wide range of services – from analysis and consulting to the development, implementation and communication of strategies and measures. Our range of topics is just as broad:

- ▶ health
- ▶ society, innovation, technology
- ▶ education, gender
- ▶ environment and sustainability
- ▶ European and international cooperation

We flexibly bundle our content-related and methodological skills in order to provide our clients with customised solutions for their current challenges.

Our profile and our strengths

Expertise

Our ability to think and work on topics in an interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary manner is based on the diversity of our more than 1,600 employees. Their expertise in terms of content and methodology has made us a sought-after facilitator between science, industry, society and politics.

Strategic consulting

Whether specific or thematically overarching – sound technical and content analyses, reliable background information and many years of experience form the basis of our recommendations to clients, who use them to shape their policies, strategies, initiatives and programmes.

Interdisciplinarity

It's easy for us to think and act in a networked way. Because among Germany's project management agencies, with which we cooperate closely in numerous areas, we cover by far the broadest range of topics. We combine the skills, expertise and experience of our departments in trans- and interdisciplinary teams to provide our clients with optimal support.

Quality and sustainability

Our trademark is the high quality of our processes and procedures. We operate a quality management system that is certified in accordance with DIN EN ISO 9001 and is constantly being improved. As a sustainable company, our environmental management is certified in accordance with DIN EN ISO 14001. With the DIN EN ISO / IEC 27001 certificate, we provide proof of our procedures for securing data and information.

Communication and dialogue

We develop targeted, effective communication concepts and dialogue formats – depending on whether a broad public is to be addressed, special groups of experts are to be informed or specific actors and age groups are to be reached with certain topics. We use all analogue and digital communication channels – considering the respective content and target group.

Funding management

We administer funding, in accordance with the objectives and rules of our German, European and international clients. We support our clients throughout the entire funding process – from the preparation of tailor-made funding announcements to the implementation of programmes and the monitoring of their success. We advise applicants, support the evaluation of applications, involve experts and accompany the projects.

What we offer you

International networking

Global challenges such as pandemics or climate change can only be tackled globally. That is why we are actively involved in shaping the European Research Area and global cooperation in research, education and innovation. We advise, initiate, support and participate in transnational projects. We shape global relations for our clients and take on tasks in European and international committees.

Analyses

Those who promote transformation also want to recognise the possible consequences. We therefore evaluate programmes, initiatives and projects. We capture their impact and derive proposals for action. And with our knowledge-based analyses, we support the orientation of new initiatives against the background of the respective political, economic and social environment and identify the need for action.
